

Chalet Pierre Avoi Verbier, Switzerland

What we love...

We love the wonderful double height living area with wooden beams galore. The view from the hot tub on the sun terrace is rather special too...

Chalet Pierre Avoi is a beautiful wooden chalet, the kind you see on postcards of Switzerland. It's situated in the upper part of Verbier, giving far-reaching views over the town, the snow-covered fields and out over the valley beyond, offering a private and secluded feel.

Inside you will be greeted by a light and airy open-plan living and dining area, complete with stunning double height ceiling, huge picture windows and a wonderful open fireplace.

Chalet Pierre Avoi has some striking artworks and stylish décor adding a touch of contemporary style to this luxury ski chalet. There's even a second sitting room on the ground floor equipped with large TV, Wii and a selection of games and toys, ideal to give the kids their own space.

Outside there is a large south-west facing decked sun terrace and hot tub – the perfect place to take in the sun-set and those jaw-dropping views across to the Combins and Mont Blanc Massif.

To relax you'll be able to follow your soak in the hot tub with a spell in the sauna or massage in Pierre Avoi's own treatment room.
