

Villa Adelaide Sardinia, Italy

What we love...

We love the private beach access from this villa. Just slip through the gate and straight down to the sea.

Superbly stylish and ultra-modern, this beautifully designed luxury villa in Sardinia is just a little different. The property is built into the hillside, with grass roofs topping much of it, yet the rooms are filled with natural light and the panoramic views of the sea seem to open the villa right out.

The villa was designed by the renowned architect Ferdinando Fagnola and has futuristic elements to it that sit comfortably alongside mid-century wood furniture and a pared-back neutral scheme. To complement this contemporary feel, all the tech equipment is top-of-the-range, from the home cinema system to the Astra and Hotbird satellite and Bose sound system. All the little details are taken care of to ensure that you don't need to lift a finger on holiday.

The exterior of the villa has been given equally careful thought. An alfresco living and dining area, the latter festooned with vines, give you plenty of room to relax outdoors and sit over a leisurely evening meal and a few bottles of Sardinian wine with friends. As you descend the slope from the villa, down to the wonderful salt water swimming pool, and beyond, dropping towards the sea by way of a private gate and tiny path, you understand how much the outdoors is an intrinsic part of this property. With a 270-degree view of the sea, it's very much part of the experience here, with amazing views everywhere you look.

With seven comfortable bedrooms, spread out over the two distinct areas of the property, this luxury villa in Sardinia with private pool is a lovely property to share in a sociable way, as well as to retreat to for some serious rest and relaxation.
