

Villa Cetinale Tuscany, Italy

What we love...

We love the garden, said to be one of the most beautiful in Italy. Words can't do it justice. Just go and experience it for yourself.

As heavy with history as it is with style, Villa Cetinale is a once-in-a-lifetime sort of place. You'll feel like aristocracy staying in this grand building, which was built in the 17th Century for Pope Alexander VII on Etruscan ruins. The Baroque building was bought by Viscount Antony Lambton in the 1920s and painstakingly renovated over a number of years. Since 2006, this playground of the rich and famous has become available to rent privately, throwing open its doors for your next trip to Tuscany.

The interiors are a glimpse of history. Rich hues and wonderful frescoes, as well as original features such as the bas-relief in the dining room, make this property almost an art gallery in its own right. The numerous and generously sized rooms make it an ideal property for a wedding or other celebration, or just a large get-together of family and friends. The bedrooms all have their own individual charms, with regal 4-poster beds draped in curtains, ready to be drawn closed after a day in the Tuscan sunshine.

The gardens are known as some of the most beautiful in the whole of Italy. Formal arches of climbing roses and vines, antique statues by Mazzuoli, and wonderful pergolas providing shade on sunny days making this a heavenly outdoor space. The outdoor swimming pool offers the perfect spot to relax in the sun, or if you feel like being a bit more active, there is a tennis court to keep you entertained on an afternoon.

Sit back, enjoy being master or mistress of your own private domain, while the villa's staff look after your every need, and every now and again, just pinch yourself to remind yourself it's real.

Eating

Villa Cetinale's private chef will be on hand to ensure you and your entire party are well fed and watered at all times. You'll enjoy the very best of Italian cuisine here, which is only fitting for a property that boasts its very own olive oil, created from the first pressing of olives harvested from the estate. You can even buy some to take home with you, so you can make that holiday feeling last a bit longer once you're back in Blighty.

For aspiring chefs, cookery lessons can be booked, too.

You're in the Chianti region here, so there's lots for wine-lovers to enjoy.

Kids

Villa Cetinale is very family friendly and children will treasure memories of running around its enormous and beautiful gardens for years to come. The outdoor swimming pool will keep them happy and ensure they're well and truly tired out by bedtime. Indoors, there is a games room with table tennis facilities and also a children's TV room with a Playstation and even a racing seat for Gran Turismo, all of which should ensure they are happily entertained for hours.

Cots and highchairs can be provided on request to enable those with babies to travel light and nannies can be arranged too.

Location

Villa Cetinale is located in a small hamlet about 8 miles west of Siena.

There is a bus stop in Ancaiano which is 1km away and the town of Sovicille is 5km away.

The nearest airport is Florence, approximately a 1 hour drive away.
