

Villa Chiusa Tuscany, Italy

What we love...

We love the glorious pool area, with heated infinity pool and a handy pool house with kitchenette and bathroom, so you don't need to pop back to the house for essentials. It also has a fabulous view over Montalcino.

It's hard to believe this luxury villa in Tuscany was once a police station, but it still retains lots of the charming quirks of the original building and has been renovated to the very highest of standards.

The cosy and sophisticated living room with traditional Tuscan fireplace is flooded with light from the enormous windows, which offer views out to the countryside. A secluded dining area adjacent is a lovely nook in which to enjoy wonderful meals with your group of an evening, should it be too cool to linger outside on the terrace to eat. Throughout the villa, a neutral palette on walls and beautiful floor tiles give the property a rustic, traditional feel.

Each of the bedrooms is decorated in its own individual style, with luxurious fabrics and furnishings and antique pieces of furniture that bring character to the very restful sleeping quarters.

And the outside of this villa has been thought through almost as carefully as the inside. The private, heated swimming pool has its own pool house meaning you can happily spend all day relaxing here, fixing your own snacks as and when you please. There's also a delightful al fresco dining area where you and your fellow guests can relax of an evening, feasting on delicious food, often sourced directly from the estate, and fine local wines, as you watch the sun go down over the Tuscan hills.

The estate on which the luxury villa is situated is home to two wonderful eating spots, Ristorante Campo de Drago, which serves traditional Tuscan cuisine alongside the estate's own wines. The interiors are neutral and contemporary, and if you eat outside on the terrace you'll enjoy a wonderful view of the hills and woodland below. Then there is the more casual trattoria, Osteria La Canonica, ideal for a light lunch or a pizza in the evening. Both benefit from ingredients picked from the estate's own kitchen garden and a rustic, local menu.

There is also a delivery service to your villa if you prefer, which includes a kids' menu.

If you want to take a flavour of your holiday home with you, you can even take part in cookery classes at the estate's cookery school and learn how to make everything from Tuscan favourites to fresh pasta.
