

Villa Muri Antichi Tuscany, Italy

What we love...

We love the views over the rolling Tuscan hills. You literally feel every muscle in your body relax as you stand and stare out of the villa's windows.

This luxury holiday villa is where 12th-century rustic style meets 21st-century comforts. The beautiful Tuscan stone building set in a stunning estate which also houses a boutique hotel has been painstakingly restored using local wood and stone, for a truly authentic experience, but with all the comforts of home - and more.

Inside the traditional exterior, top-of-the-range audio-visual equipment, a professional kitchen and simply stunning bathrooms make this homely and welcoming property the first word in luxury.

The light and spacious kitchen means cooking is a pleasure - we're pretty sure you'll be arguing over who's on oven duty each night! And serious foodies will be in seventh heaven here, with fabulous local delicacies to try and even cookery lessons available in your villa so you can learn to create meals like a true Tuscan.

Amazing communal spaces inside with open fires for cooler evenings, as well as spacious outdoor terraces with views over the hills, perfect for eating together, makes this a really wonderful villa to share with friends or family. And the library and hearth room means there's also plenty of room to spread out and find a little space to yourself. Don't forget to try out the extensive facilities of the hotel on the estate too, from the indoor and outdoor pools, spa, two fantastic restaurants and a cocktail lounge with stunning views over the valley, there's plenty to enjoy.

But it's the little things that make this villa so special. Attention has been paid to all the details - luxurious cotton bedlinens, natural and neutral soft furnishings, marble bath tubs that make for the most relaxing soak you'll ever enjoy... Villa Muri Antichi is 'simple', done perfectly.

Villa Muri Antichi

Rooms

Villa Muri Antichi sleeps 12 people in 6 bedrooms.

All the bedrooms are generous doubles, sleeping two people, and each has its own luxury en-suite. Two of the bedrooms have large marble bathtubs.

Three bedrooms are connected on level 3 with a comfortable living area and wood-burning fireplace adjacent to one of the bedrooms.

Eating

A delicious complimentary breakfast of fruit, yoghurt, pastries and various local delicacies is served in the hotel restaurant each morning. The villa is stocked with coffee and water, which are both refreshed daily, and there is a good selection of wines available to purchase at the villa, too.

The top-of-the-range kitchen is a joy to cook in and you'll find plenty of outlets nearby where you can buy wonderful local ingredients. If you feel you need a bit of inspiration, you can sign up for lessons at the cookery school on site. However, should you wish to eat out, your concierge will be happy to book tables for you.

Don't miss the opportunity to eat at Oreade, the hotel's own restaurant, for a true Tuscan farm-to-table experience. A private chef can be arranged to cook for you and your party in your chalet, too.
