

Chalet Joux Plane Morzine, France

What we love...

The huge 23-metre pool at this luxury ski chalet is spectacular. Not only does it have beautiful mountain views but you can swim in and out of the fresh mountain air or close the outdoors off and enjoy the relaxing swim jets.

Described by many as a 'James Bond pad', that's a fair description. In fact, we're pretty sure 007 would be very impressed with this luxury ski chalet, nestled into the mountain in Morzine, which you enter via a 15-metre underground tunnel.

Beautifully crafted inside and out, one end is constructed almost entirely from glass, making the most of the fabulous views over the valley. A glass atrium, warm, grainy woods and contemporary but super comfy fixtures and fittings make Chalet Joux Plane a study in using natural materials to create cutting edge design.

As well as all the high-spec fixtures you'd expect from one of the best ski properties in Europe, this exclusive luxury chalet always goes the extra mile. Want a stunning mountain view? Have it from an adult swing seat. In need of a relaxing bath? Slip into one of the freestanding tubs. This property really has everything you could wish for and a few things you've probably never considered.

The wellbeing facilities are second to none, with a private gym, Bamford spa with a hammam and treatment room where Bamford practitioners can pamper you after a morning on the slopes, and of course, the spectacular 23 metre indoor-outdoor swimming pool, a highlight of the house. Swim from the chalet out into the open air under the watch of the mountains – or close the pool off and enjoy an invigorating jet experience sure to soothe away any skiing aches and pains.

A cinema, art gallery, library and children's playroom means there is always somewhere beautiful to play, lounge or just cocoon yourself with a book and take in your surroundings.

The dedicated and talented staff are practically invisible but always on hand to ensure everything runs like clockwork for you. In the evenings, enjoy pre-dinner drinks in the mezzanine bar area or gathered around the statement fire with friends, sprawled on the oh-so-comfy sofas. Whether your chef is cooking for you to eat in the 'floating' mezzanine dining room, you're enjoying warm comfort food in front of the TV or sitting down to experience the unforgettable Chef's Table tasting menu or Kaiseki dining, every meal here is one to remember.

In fact, the Breakfast Club is famed for its very fine starts to the day too.

Eating

Each morning, come to slowly with a visit from The Breakfast Club, where you can fuel yourself for a day on the slopes and when you return to your private luxury ski chalet from the snow, freshly made breads, cakes and a charcuterie platter are waiting to greet you.

To allow you to really make the most of your luxury ski holiday a dining plan is drawn up for you, which your hosts recommend to include one evening of Kaiseiki, a six-course Japanese fine-dining; an evening at Chef's Table to try a tasting menu; two 'gourmet' dinners and one relaxed dining evening.

There's a pre-arrival consultation with your chef so that all your group's likes, dislikes and any dietary requirements can be easily catered for and your chef will be happy to provide an early evening children's tea, so that no one little has to be on best behaviour.

There is also a gin bar with a variety of premium gins and speciality tonics, an open spirits bar and prosecco and house champagne which flows all week long.

Kids

The spaciousness of the property means there's plenty of room for kids to let off steam, as well as lots to keep them occupied when they aren't on the nursery slopes. As well as a 23m indoor-outdoor swimming pool for them to splash in, there's also a cinema room and a playroom.

For kids who wish to be close to their parents, the four-berth bunk room can be interconnected with one of the bedrooms, creating a wonderful family suite.

To make life easier for parents, there is an in-resort driver service to shuttle you to and from the ski lifts and your chef will be pleased to do a kids' tea each evening so they can eat at a more suitable time.

Cots and highchairs can be provided for smaller guests and childcare can be arranged on request.
